

For Freedoms Reading Library

The re:home For Freedoms Reading Library offers three reading lists—for children, teens, and adults—responding to the issues of displacement addressed in the exhibition. Selections of the books featured are available for browsing while at re:home, or for purchase in the re:home Pop-Up Shop.

For Freedoms is a platform for civic engagement for artists in the United States, founded by artists Hank Willis Thomas and Eric Gottesman. re:home will host a For Freedoms Town Hall meeting on Saturday, December 15, 6-8pm in Minnesota Street Project's atrium, to explore the question "How do creatives show up as humanitarians within the context of democracy?," moderated by Marc Bamuthi Joseph, spoken-word poet, dancer, playwright, and current Chief of Program and Pedagogy at the Yerba Buena Center for the Arts—and newly-appointed Vice President and Artistic Director of Social Impact at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Books in the re:home For Freedoms Reading Library are provided with the generous support of Pamela + David Hornik.
